

Financial Assessments with Adult Social Care

You may need to pay towards your Adult Social Care services. This can include home care, day care or residential care services.

People who have had a Needs assessment are usually offered a Financial Assessment. This helps to find out how much money you will pay for care and support services.

What is a Financial Assessment?

A Financial Assessment works out how much you may pay towards your adult social care and support. This is also known as a means test.

Adult Social Care at Newcastle City Council will look at how much money you have. This helps them decide how much money you pay for your care and support services.

It is free to have a Financial Assessment.

What is eligibility?

The Care Act sets out the criteria to decide if you can receive support or money from Adult Social Care at Newcastle City Council.

It's described as having 'eligible care needs' or that you are 'eligible' for support if you meet this criteria. This is decided when you have a Needs Assessment.

You can have a Financial Assessment, if you have eligible care needs.

What happens during a Financial assessment?

A Financial Assessment Officer carries out the assessment over the phone. They will ask you for information about your finances.

You will need to provide details of your:

- Income: This is money you have coming in, such as benefits and pensions.
- Spending: This is the amount you spend on council tax, rent, and mortgage.
- Capital: This is the amount of savings that you have or the value of your property.

People with income or capital assets over £23,250 are expected to pay towards the cost of their care and support. You may need to pay for the full cost of your care.

Do I have to have a Financial Assessment?

You can choose not to have a Financial Assessment. This means you will pay the full cost of the services you receive.

After a Financial Assessment

Adult Social Care at Newcastle City Council will decide if you are eligible for funding towards your care and support. They will send you a letter with more information.

If you are eligible for help

You will be told how much money you can get from the Council, to help pay for your Adult Social Care services. You may still need to pay towards your care and support costs. You will get a letter from the Council. This will explain either:

- The most you could pay each week towards your care and support costs at home or in your community (non-residential services). This is your assessable income.

- What you need to pay towards your care home placement (residential services). This is your assessed contribution.

Your financial assessment will be reviewed each year.

Your care and support plan

After your Assessment and it's decided that you are eligible for support, Adult Social Care will work with you to:

- create your personal care and support plan. This plan will set out how your support needs may be met and what services you are eligible for from the Council. You can be involved in creating your plan
 - give you a Personal Budget that will be used to pay for your care and support. You can manage your own money or Adult Social Care can do this for you.

If you are not eligible for help

Adult Social Care at Newcastle City Council will decide if you are eligible for funding towards your care and support. They will send you a letter with more information.

You can still get information and advice from Adult Social Care at Newcastle City Council. They can put you in touch with local services who can help.

You can arrange and pay for your own care and support. This is known as self funding.

The information from your Needs and Financial Assessments is still useful. Other organisations will be able to use this information when they talk to you about your needs. You can get help to plan and buy your own care:

Disability North offer independent living advice and support. They can help you to employ a personal assistant, manage your personal budget and direct payments.

EAC HousingCare is a free housing and care advice service. They help older people make choices about their housing and care options. They have a free telephone and give online information and advice.

PayingForCare is a national information and advice service. They can help you understand how much you may need to pay towards your care. They have an online 'care cost calculator' tool. This can help to explain residential care costs, Adult Social Care costs and the Care Cap. Use their website to find specialist care fees advisers. You can get personal financial advice, support and information.

Legal & General have a information and advice service that can help you to find and fund your care.

NHS has more information on paying for your own social care (self-funding)

Paying for care

Carers Assessments

A carer gives unpaid care and support to someone who can't manage without their help. This could be a family member, friend, partner or neighbour. Carers can get help and support from Adult Social Care.

Carers assessment is how you can find out what support is available to you from Adult Social Care. This is a conversation about your needs as a carer. To help reduce the impact of caring on your work, life and wellbeing.
