

Home adaptations, equipment and aids

You can make changes to your home or get equipment to help you with day-to-day tasks and activities such as getting:

- in and out of your bath
- around indoors or outdoors
- dressed
- on and off chairs
- in and out of bed
- making a hot drink or a meal
- going up and down the stairs
- using a telephone
- watching television or listening

Types of equipment

There are a range of things that you can buy to help you with:

- personal care such as, grab rails
- bathroom and hygiene such as, raised toilet seats, commodes and bath boards
- bed equipment such as a bed raiser
- moving around the home such as, walking sticks, zimmer frames or hand rails
- chair adaptations
- preparing food such as, lever taps and adapted kitchen utensils.
- your safety and peace of mind for example, if you had an injury or fall ill at home. Such as alarms and telecare equipment, including vibrating alert alarms, personal loop systems for deaf/deafblind/hard of hearing people.

Types of adaptation

- Minor adaptations are small changes that can be made to your home. Such as, installing hand or grab rails around your home
- Major adaptations are larger changes that can be made to your home. These changes may require structural changes to your property. A professional may need to carry out these changes such as: installing a downstairs shower room, widening doorways, installing a ramp to your front door, or lowering the work tops in your kitchen

Age UK England have a helpful factsheet on adapting your home.

Get advice to find the right equipment

It is important to get the right advice first, to avoid making an expensive mistake. There are a number of services that can offer advice or assessments to help make sure you choose the right equipment for your needs.

Local help and advice

Disability North give independent living support and advice. You can visit them to see aids and equipment such as stair lifts, an accessible kitchen, bathroom and shower. They also have walkers, bed risers, shoes and wheelchairs. They can help you to choose and buy equipment to suit your needs. They have a list of second hand equipment that's available to buy.

Adult Social CarePoint at Newcastle City Council can give you information and advice. Call them for a chat to find out about local support. They will work with you to understand your situation. To find out what's working well and where they can help. They can put you in touch with local services. If you need one, they can arrange a Needs Assessment to find out if the council can help you further. Some people are eligible for financial help from the Council. This could include equipment or adaptations to your home that could make your life easier. If you can't get financial help, they can still tell you about services that could make your life easier.

Your doctor or GP surgery can refer you to NHS Disabled Services Centre for a wheelchair assessment.

Care & Repair Newcastle at Newcastle City Council is a home improvement agency. They help people to adapt their homes who are unable to do so themselves. They support disabled people, older people and vulnerable people to live independently and safely at home for longer. To use this service you will need to meet their eligibility criteria. This may also be means tested. If you are eligible for support they can help you to apply for a Disabled Facilities Grant (DFG) and loan equipment. Contact them for more information.

Minor Adaptations and Repairs Service (MARS) provide adaptations for disabled people in Newcastle. To help you live independently and safely at home. They provide adaptations that are easily installed and don't require structural changes to your property. For example, internal and external grab rails.

Peacocks Medical Group have a shop in Newcastle City Centre where you can see and buy equipment.

NHS Disabled Services Centre at the Freeman Hospital, is the centre for:

- amputee rehabilitation and prosthetic limbs
- wheelchair and special seating: this includes wheelchair repairs
- artificial eye services

To use the NHS Disabled Services Centre you need to be referred by your hospital surgical team, after an amputation. Your doctor, GP and other healthcare professionals can refer you to this service too. You will then be given an appointment to attend the clinic for an assessment and support.

Tax relief on equipment

If you're disabled or have a long-term illness, you won't be charged Value-added Tax (VAT) on products designed or adapted for your own personal or domestic use such as:

- Mobility Scooters

- Stairlifts
- Wheelchairs

To get the product VAT free your disability has to qualify. For VAT purposes, you're disabled or have a long-term illness if:

- you have a physical or mental impairment that affects your ability to carry out everyday activities, eg blindness
- you have a condition that's treated as chronic sickness, like diabetes
- you're terminally ill

See gov.uk for more information.

Telecare, telehealth and personal alarms

Telecare, telehealth and personal alarms can help you to live well at home. Giving you and the people who care for you confidence and peace of mind that you are safe. Also known as personal alarm systems, home care monitoring, careline systems, community alarms or pendant alarms.

There is lots of equipment that can help you:

- remember to take medication or switch off appliances
  - lock doors
  - get help if you have a fall or a flood

Digital switchover for telecare, telehealth and personal alarms

The UK's telephone network is changing. It is being upgraded and improved by 2025.

Telephone providers are moving customers from old analogue landlines to a new digital landline service. Services that use the old landline system such as, home phones and healthcare devices will be switched over to the new digital system.

People who use telecare devices that are connected to a phone line, such as a fall monitor, lifeline, or personal alarm. When you speak to your telephone provider tell them about the telecare service that you use. They can give you more advice about how the switch could affect you.

Ostara provides telecare in Newcastle. For new customers, they now only new install digital base units. For existing customers, they will contact you to swap your old analogue equipment and replace it with new digital equipment. The new digital units have a 72-hour battery back-up and a 4G roaming sim. This means your phone can still be used if there is a power cut or problems with the landline, so you can get help in an emergency. This process is being managed by Newcastle City Council. It is planned that by March 2025 the telecare service will be fully digital. This is well in advance of the switch off date.

The Housing Plus schemes (Sheltered and Assisted Living) are being upgraded to ensure they can operate when the landline networks are switched off.

If you have other devices connected to your telephone landline, such as alarm systems, you might need to upgrade your device to make sure it is compatible. You can contact the equipment supplier or device manufacturer to find out if it will still work when you switch to the new digital phone line.
