

Good Things Foundation

Good Things Foundation is a digital inclusion charity. They work to support people to be more digitally able. They work with over 5,000 community partners, Online Centres Network and others to help the people and communities with the greatest need. They run the:

National Databank which provides free sims with mobile data to adults with little or no access to the internet, who have a low income. You can use their website to find support in your area. Sims are distributed by community hubs.

National Device Bank provides refurbished laptops, mobile phones and tablets to people who may not have access to a device. Devices are donated by public and private sector organisations. Use their website to find support in your area.

Learn my way free online platform that helps you to gain basic digital skills and build confidence in using the internet.

Last updated: October 27, 2025

Website: <https://www.goodthingsfoundation.org/>

Email: hello@goodthingsfoundation.org

Twitter: <https://twitter.com/goodthingsfdn>

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/goodthingsfoundation/>

Cost: Free

Address:
PO Box 6063
Sheffield
S11 0GU

Related Articles

Digital support

Stay connected online and improve your internet connection

Getting online and using digital equipment