

The Toby Henderson Trust

The Toby Henderson Trust (TTHT) is an independently funded charity supporting autistic children, their families and carers. After 15 years at Whitehouse Farm the trust has recently moved to Toby House, Earth Balance, Bedlington, Northumberland.

They are focused on life changing early intervention with autistic children aged 2 years to adulthood. Early intervention is life changing because it can improve communication, relieve frustration and often lead to a significant degree of independent living later in life. They carry out sensory profiling, counselling and they have a sensory garden and a social group.

There is also an Autism Hub at South Shields.
