

National Women's Register (NWR)

NWR is a social organisation for all women. They offer local group and online meetings for conversation, friendship and fun. The groups are informal and relaxed. You can meet lively minded members who are interested in everything and talk about anything. Visit their website to find your local group and more about their activities.

Use the contact form on the group page to email your local organiser to arrange to attend 2 free taster sessions. If you decide to join the membership subscription costs £32 a year from January 2024.

They are a registered non-profit charity with the Charity Commission for England and Wales.
