

healthtalk.org

healthtalk.org is an online charity where you can find information on a range of illnesses and other health-related issues from seeing and hearing people's real life experiences. Thousands of people have shared their experiences on film to help others understand what it's really like to have a health condition such as chronic pain, breast cancer, arthritis or weight change and associated health problems

Their work is based on the Health Experiences Research Group Oxford University's Nuffield Department of Primary Care Health which means the information is rigorously evaluated.
