

Act of Remembrance on Armistice Day

Gather with Newcastle Cathedral on the eleventh day of the eleventh month – the anniversary of the Armistice that ended the First World War – for a short act of remembrance led by the Dean of Newcastle. The service will conclude with the laying of poppies to honour all who have served and sacrificed in times of conflict. This will take place at the Cathedral's baptistry screen, added to commemorate those who fell during the First World War.

Last updated: October 19, 2026